

Day 1

Well everyone I finally made it. I started off to Washington around 4am. I think I got there around 9am or 10am. Well what i thought would be an up and ready to go flight turn into a 8hr delay because the plane engine died right as we took off. (Yeah I know) :O

Well around 11pm we finally got on a plane but instead of Germany we head to London around 3pm, great right!!! WRONG the new airlines messed up our tickets again so again we sleep around the airport until 8pm gosh and finally around 11pm London to Budadpest (New time zone) we land! Thank JESUS . Other than that everything is going great' my teammates are cool and I think we bonded really well for a new team. My Teammates are crayz and never thought we would have so much fun being stuck at airports for that long of a time.

On another note after only getting hummm... 1hr worth of sleep we get up for practice. Not bad since Im used to getting up but it was so hard to fall asleep last night here bc it like 10 or 11am at home. I dont like where im staying but hey at least its not the worst. There are no tv, well its like a dorm room small and very closed in. Oh yeah by the way no one like to say excuse around here. People bump right into you and keeps it moving its like there all in a hurry for a job interview, but hey its there life. Well I guess thats enough right now. Coach thinks we should get some rest before we crash later on today. Well tata for now everyone and I cant wait ttyl.

Luv