

Final Game and Last Days

Well unfortunately we couldnt pull off an upset this time. Although we played harder than ever. We lost to a very good team, that loves to run :) This experience has given me the light to believe that I can further my career and I am not left guessing if I can make it here. Yeah the accomdations wasnt all that but hey i got thru the next day. Maybe the sun and people wasnt nice to me but hey thats just life. I like it here though, hopefully someone will contact me as soon as possible, im going to keep praying and I know you will too! I think I played pretty well. I only had one stand out game the other was pretty average though. I know that Im capable though, just have to get use to the style of play that all. 6:45am I will be leaving here heading to the airport hope you all are ready for my arrival :) never know when I may get a call to just up and leave so Im not expecting to stay too long. Thank u all for reading my messages. See you all in a lil while.

P.S. I have some pictures for all to see. All the sites and everything its really amazing to see!

Luv